

LOW Lights & Trick Mirrors

Chelsea Zockoll
Spring/ Summer 2021

My senior collection is influenced by Andy Warhol. I have taken the affects he had on consumerism that changed art, fashion, and its production and elevated them to the next level.

This Warhol influence is the very foundation of the collection. I used his art as an inspiration and created my own custom pop art print. Warhol's popularization of screen-printing gave the general public access to his work and lead the charge towards mass consumerism.

My entire collection is fashioned from a large-scale custom print that is heavily crystaled and embellished. With a foundation of basic tailoring and eveningwear, I elevated the clean and elegant silhouettes by pairing it with an ostentatious print. Not only are classic shapes being paired with a bright, bold print, but I have added avent guard elements you would never expect to see paired with the timeless tailoring techniques. My head turning collection is one not to be missed.
